

Disclaimer

Content of the online offer

We are endeavored to keep our online offer up-to-date and the contents correct and complete. Nevertheless errors cannot be ruled out.

We assume no liability for the currentness and correctness of the contents and for the completeness of the information provided in our web offer unless the errors were made deliberately or in a grossly negligent way. This refers to potential material and immaterial damages caused by using this online web offer.

Copyright

The layout of the homepage, the graphics and pictures used as well as the collection and individual entries are protected by copyright law. We reserve all rights.

External and Links

On 12 May 1998 the Hamburg District Court ruled that under certain circumstances one may be held responsible for the contents of any established links. According to the Hamburg District Court, this can only be prevented by expressly distancing oneself from the contents.

On our sites we have established links to pages on the internet; the contents and updating thereof are outside our sphere of influence. For all of these links the following applies:

"We have no influence on the structure and contents of other internet pages. We therefore distance ourselves from the contents of all other internet sites even if the link was established from our pages."

This statement applies for all of the links shown on our homepage and for all the contents of the sites which show our registered banner and links.

Data protection

If, as part of the internet offer, there is the possibility of entering personal information (e-mail address, name, addresses), the information is entered on a voluntary basis. We explicitly state that we will not forward this information to third parties.

Legal validity

This disclaimer is part of the internet offer of Tigerpalast Variété GmbH. If individual wordings or parts of this text no longer or no longer completely reflect the prevailing legal norms, the remaining parts of this statement remain unaffected.